LOGOS

KUNA SCHOOL DISTRICT LOGO DESIGN (2023): I created this for the Kuna School District Logo contest. They wanted a focus on lifelong learning and a small emphasis on graduation and community.

FICTIONAL LOGO FOR AN ARCHERY STORE/RANGE (2023)

This was a school assignment in which I chose a mascot and had to create a logo for a fake business. I chose a hawk as my mascot and created this logo for an imaginary archery store/range that specializes in custom size equipment for minors.

IDAHOPE LOGO DESIGN (2023)

I created this design as an entry in logo contest. Idahope had a biking project that they wanted a new logo for.

ETSY LOGO FOR WHATINYARNATION-STORE (2022)

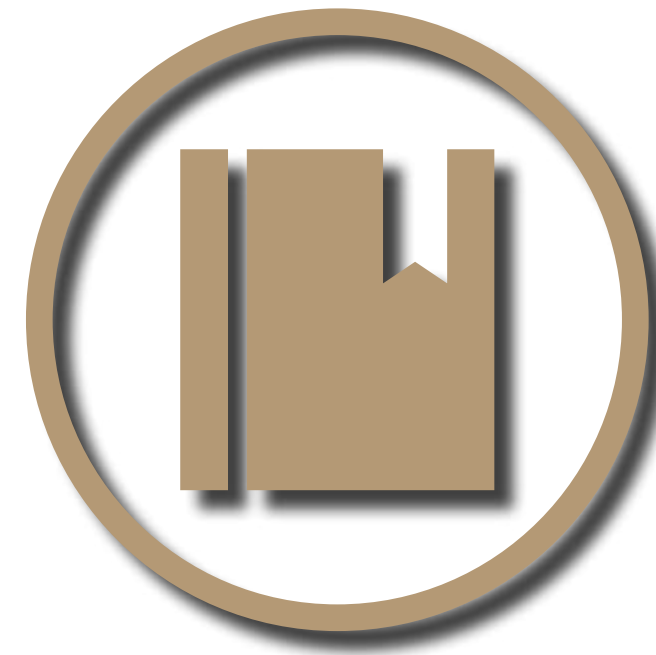

I created this logo for my Etsy shop “What In Yarnation Store.” I sell crocheted items, hence the crochet hook and chain yarn design.

SOFTWARE STUDIO LOGO (2021)

I created this logo for Kuna High School Software Studio. It features a caveman, which is the school's mascot as well as a circuit board design to emphasize the technology aspect.

WITHIN

1. DUEL TO THE DEATH: Keeley Savage (9) reaches for the dice to determine what happens next in their campaign. Keeley wants to avoid substituting Dungeon Master, and decides to sort out the adventures on an ad-hoc basis. Some adventures called One Shot last a couple of hours, while longer campaigns can last from 6 months to 3 years. Photo by Katelyn Wardell.

2. GRAND ESCAPE: Nathan Sharp (10) uses his hands to bring the game to life. If someone dies in the Dungeons and Dragons club, another character will be made and integrated into the story so the players get a chance to continue playing. Mr. Adolton commented, "Not all characters finish the story, but we want all players to finish the story." Photo by Katelyn Wardell.

3. FIGHTING THE MONSTER: Keeley Savage (9) and Nathan Sharp (10) Adolton maps the way through the penious and trevelling world for D&D. The club is a place where players can learn to play the game on an ad-hoc basis. 4. WIPESWAP WASHING: Keeley Savage (9), Finn Eggleston (9), and Kai Knudsen (9) strongly express the importance of the decision their team member will make in their adventure that will effect them all. One term that is commonly used to refer to enemies in Dungeons and Dragons is BBEG, which stands for Big Bad Evil Guy.

5. COMPLETING THE QUEST: Calvin Strasser (9) analyzes his next move as he decides whether to attack or retreat, knowing that this move will influence his character's fate as Skyler Taylor (9) and Zander Vansodast (9) wait for their turns. One of the main goals of the Dungeons and Dragons club is to help players learn to play the game on an ad-hoc basis. 6. DUNGEONS AND DRAGONS: The chess of it. You might be the strongest member of the group, but the weakest member could lift the lowest thing while you're dead. Photo by Katelyn Wardell.

COMING TOGETHER TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE

TEACHER Adam Gordon (12) balances the recycling bin while Jacob Strick (12) picks out anything that cannot be recycled. The students at Tolly (12) dump the previous day's food waste into another bin.

PARENT Jo Anne Martin (12) dumps the recycling into the larger bin. The teachers try to focus on promoting the members' functional academic skills.

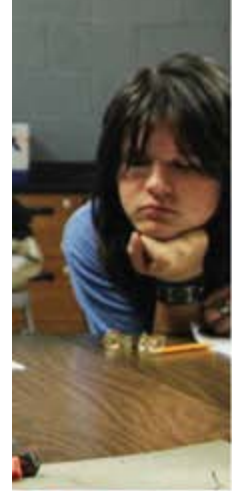

STUDENT Birch Jolley (12) inspects the recycling for any trash that cannot be recycled such as metal tips of pencils, food, or plastic bags. Green Team is responsible for taking out the recycling, as well as doing tasks like filling the vending machines.

TEACHER Riley Spambower (12) studies down the hallway to empty the recycling bin.

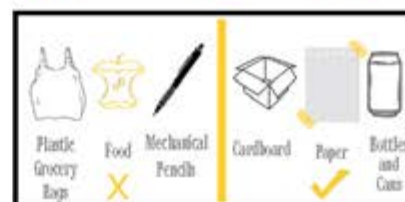

STUDENT Steven Dineen (12) counts and queues up the trash from room 115, so it does not disturb any of the classes.

When Ms. Vachon was asked what her favorite thing about Green Team was, she said "My favorite thing is the student personalities. They have unique personalities and they keep me on my toes as a teacher. I like it because it is not a boring job."
